

Sharon L. Walker MPH, PhD, RN

Sharon Walker is the Vice President/Chief Operations Officer for Generations Center, a non-profit research and education organization in Dallas, Texas. Sharon received her nursing education in Ontario, Canada with post-graduate studies in Occupational Health and Safety at McMaster University. She earned an undergraduate degree in Rehabilitation Studies from UT-Pan American in Edinburg, Texas. Her graduate degrees were earned at the University of North Texas in Denton and Fort Worth, and include a Master of Science in Economics: Labor and Industrial Relations, a Master of Public Health: Health Services Research and a Doctorate in Sociology. She has an extensive clinical background in occupational health and safety. She serves as an expert witness and consultant for law enforcement agencies for domestic violence, sexual assault and strangulation assaults. Police academies, law enforcement, education and healthcare providers in Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Utah and Ontario, Canada have presented her work. As a Certified Forensic Nurse, her research and professional activity focus on violence prevention.